STRANGLES WHEN A PIECE OF MEAT
STICKS IN THROAT

Hippolitis Boone, Carpenter Living in Silvis, Meets Tragic Death.

IN E. MOLINE RESTAURANT

Collapses in the Arms of His Brother-in-law, Only Known Relative in This Country.

Hippolitis Boone, aged 25, a carpenter employed in East Moline and living in Silvis, choked to death while eating breakfast Sunday morning in an East Moline restaurant. A small piece of meat became lodged in his windpipe and efforts to dislodge it failed.

Boone went to the Rock Island station early in the morning to meet his brother-in-law, Jacob Haars, a farmer living near Atkinson, and on the latter's arrival the two went to a restaurant on Fifteenth avenue between Eleventh and Twelfth streets for breakfast, entering the place about 8 o'clock.

Hardly had the meal been begun before Boone was seized with a coughing attack. He tried to drink water, but was unable to do so and continued to choke. When his face began to turn black Haars shouted for someone to bring a doctor and several men ran out to find one. As they did so the dying man collapsed in the arms of his relative.

Finds Him Dead.

Dr. J. H. Long was the first physician to be located and he hurried to the restaurant only to find Boone dead. Efforts were made to resuscitate him but without avail.

Coroner R. C. Meyer conducted an inquest at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at the Schaefer undertaking rooms and the verdict was "accidental death from choking."

Boone was a native of Holland. He came to this country several years ago and lived on Fifth street, Silvis. He was not married and so far as is known his brother-in-law is the only relative in this country.

BONDSMEN SEEK
PIANO MERCHANT

Thurman S. Tongret Disappears When Future Seems Made Up of Trouble.

Thurman S. Tongret, manager of the Moline Sales company, is being sought by bondsmen who want security for him in a case involving a woman some time ago. The police are also hunting him to serve a warrant for assault. He dropped out of sight Saturday night after having been notified by the Rock Island men who had signed his bond that they intended to turn him over to the police. Asking to be excused for a moment, he stepped out of the room and has not been seen since.

The desire of the bondsmen to surrender Tongret was the result of another case which was to have had a hearing this morning before Justice Putrkin and in which he was one of the principal witnesses. His absence made a postponement necessary, Feb. 23 being set as the date.

Charles Sartain, arrested Feb. 7, was to have had a preliminary hearing on the charge of stealing a piano belonging to the Moline Sales company. It is claimed by Charles Bergren, agent for a Chicago piano house and associated with Tongret in business, that Sartain took a piano shipped to the firm and now has it in his home. Sartain does not deny the charge, but says he took it with Tongret's knowledge and that he will not give it up until paid wages due him for services to the firm.

While discussing the matter Saturday evening, Tongret and Bergren became involved in a quarrel and the latter later swore out a warrant against the former for assault and battery. He went with a policeman to serve the warrant to Tongret's rooms, and there found the bondsmen awaiting the return of Tongret, who, they explained, had just come out for a moment. He had not returned when the case of Sartain came up at 9 o'clock this morning, and the bondsmen are using every effort to find him.

SLEEPS IN HALL;
ALARM IS RAISED

Man Gets Into Strange Quarters While on Way Home Late at Night.

Cries of alarm issuing from the second story of the house at 154 Fourth avenue aroused the neighborhood at 2 o'clock Sunday morning. The screams came from a woman and from their general tenor the neighbors gathered that burglars were looting the place.

Half a dozen telephoned to the police at the same time and a whole wagon load of officers were soon on the ground with clubs and revolvers ready for instant use. When the bluecoats rushed into the hallway at the foot of the stairs of the house from which the alarm had been given, they stumbled upon Paul Nordlund of 616 Fourth avenue, sleeping peacefully on the floor.

Nordlund said he had attended a social function during the evening, and while on his way home became lost. He tried one door after another in an effort to find a warm place for a nap, and finally found one which was not locked. He paid $5.05 on a charge of disorderly conduct when the case came up this morning.

Mr. Black has been superintendent of the Republic Iron and Steel company of Moline a little more than a year, having succeeded C. T. Dabney. During that time he made many friends among the employees of the plant, who Saturday evening presented him with a gold watch, the presentation speech being made by George A. Pickup, master mechanic.

CONSUMERS ALL
PAY SAME RATE

City Commission Considering Making Figure 15 Cents per 1,000 Gallons.

NO FAVORS TO LARGE USER

Minimum Rate to Entitle User to Meter Reduced from $5 to $24 Per Annum.

If an ordinance which was considered by the city commission at its meeting today becomes law water consumers will all pay at the same rate which will be 15 cents per 1,000 gallons. Now the rate is from 6 to 15 cents, depending upon the quantity consumed. It is proposed to change the regulations so that quantity will have nothing to do with the rate, the big factories paying as much per 1,000 gallons as the smallest consumer.

Obviously the result will be to materially increase the amount of revenue from the water department. The higher cost of giving a thoroughly filtered article and at higher pressure is urged as justifying the change. Hereafter it is also proposed to make it possible for almost any water user to have a meter. Anyone using $5 worth of water a year can have one or at least be entitled to one. The minimum for a meter now is $24.

Hours of sprinkling were reduced from five to two in the same ordinance. But one hour will be allowed each in the morning and evening, the time being from 6 to 7 a. m. and from 7 to 8 p. m.

Bonds Bear 4 1/2 Percent Interest.

The ordinance for fire department bonds which will be voted upon at the spring election will be arranged to provide for 66 bonds to be retired during a period of 11 years. The first payment with interest will be $5,228.75 and the final one $1,532.75. Interest will be fixed at 4 1/2 percent. The period the bonds will run will be from July 1, 1915 to July 1, 1926.

The commission voted $30 to Mrs. Cecelia Freeberg, Eighteenth-and-one-half street and Twenty-fifth avenue, as damages for the loss of her garden. She claimed that the city in doing construction work, dumped clay on her garden and ruined it. The claim has been pending for a long time.

BELGIAN INSANE,
SAYS JAIL COURT

East Moline Man So Violent Keepers Fear to Release Him.

So violent that his keepers would not undergo the alleged hazard of taking Henry Vanderjagt, 49, a Belgian, from the East Moline jail, Judge B. S. Bell held an insanity hearing in the jail Sunday morning at East Moline. Drs. A. L. Leopold of East Moline and E. Don Taylor of Moline composed a commission with Judge Bell which declared Vanderjagt insane and recommended his commitment to the Watertown hospital for the insane. Today a deputy sheriff took the prisoner to Watertown.

Vanderjagt came to this country from Belgium six years ago. His friends in his native land paid his transportation to the United States. It is said, because he was an undesirable. In Belgium, it is said, he had been inmate of an insane hospital. It is predicted that he will be deported after the Watertown authorities learn of his previous incarceration in a hospital for the insane.

Vanderjagt first alarmed his associates last Friday when he became violent at East Moline. He had no special delusions. "He was just a raving maniac," said Judge Bell today in speaking of the case. It is reported that the entire police force of East Moline was required to arrest and place Vanderjagt in jail. Vanderjagt is unmarried and was a laborer at East Moline.

The first session there will be held Thursday evening of this week. Owing to the fact that no hall had been engaged for the purpose no meeting was held Sunday.

WHIRL OF THE WILLY WILLY.

Fearful Force of the Miniature Cyclones of Australia.

Writing in Harper's Magazine, Norman Duncan tells of his first experience with the whirlwinds of the Australian desert: "All at once a diminutive whirlwind took life under our very feet and went whirling and swirling to the east. 'What's that?' cried the artist, astounded. 'It might have been a partridge whirling to new cover. 'A little willy-willy,' said the bushman. 'It was a singular phenomenon. Its force and activity were amazing, and the noise it made—the swish and hum and crackle of it—astonished us no less. We watched its erratic course. Its outline was definite. Its path no man could guess. And it moved swiftly, only occasionally stopping in indecision to spin like a top. It darted it swerved, it circled. Had it returned, upon its tracks—and there was no certainty that it would not immediately do so—we should have taken to our heels! It was so visible and small that, having short warning, we might have leaped aside and escaped. And a man would earnestly desire to elude it. It had a fearsome violence; it caught up the twigs; it scattered the pebbles; it tore at the scrub; it gathered a cloud of dust. When at last it vanished, a thick red mist, high in the air, we laughed heartily at this comical little six foot cyclone, as we were disposed to regard it.

"Traveling subsequently in the midst of a host of these small winds, we had no laughter left.

"Precisely speaking, the willy willys are those destructive cyclones which originate in the ocean to the north of the continent and, blowing to the southwest, fall heavily on the northwestern Western Australian coast from December to March. Off Ninety Mile beach, near Broome, the pearl fishers call them Cockeyed Bobs. Five years ago two visitations of the willy willys sent sixty luggers to the bottom and accounted for the disappearance of 300 men and more. It is now the custom of the pearlers to lie discreetly in harbor during the willy willy season. If, however, the great willy willy, instead of following the coast line in a southerly direction, deviates to the east, as sometimes happens, it crosses the continent to the great Australian light, on the south coast, and its course is marked by torrential rains. A fall of as much as twenty-nine and one-half inches has been recorded. All the dry lands—where, too, we traveled—are in this way sometimes refreshed."

She Made Her Point.

"Dearie," said the young married man, "I have to go to New York on business. It will only take a day or so, and I hope you won't miss me too much while I'm gone, but—

"I won't," answered his young wife positively, "because I'm going with you."

"I wish you could, dear, but it won't be convenient this time. What would you want to go for anyhow? I'm going to be too busy to be with you, and—

"I have to go. I need clothes."

"But, darling, you can get all the clothes you want right here on Euclid avenue."

"Thank you. That's all I wanted!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Logic Below Stairs.

A country gentleman recently had his house fitted with electric bells, and, giving instructions to his servant, he said, "Now, I want you to understand me clearly, Joseph, that when I ring once I want you, and when I ring twice I want Maggie, the housemaid." The bell rang. Joseph never moved. Presently it rang again, and Maggie hurried to her master, who was very angry. "Why didn't that rascal Joseph come when I rang for him?" demanded the gentleman. "Why, sir," answered Maggie, "Joseph was busy reading the paper when he heard the first ring, and he said to me, 'Now, Maggie, wait until master rings again, and then I will be you he wants.'"

VIKING TEAM IS WINNER OF TWO
CHAMPIONSHIPS

Captures Trophies in Both Degree and Floor Work at Chicago Convention.

DEFEATS 11 COMPETITORS

Gives Moline Two National Title Holding Degree Staffs, But Occupying Same Hall.

Two first prizes were brought home from Chicago today by the degree staff of Thor lodge No. 9, Independent Order of Vikings, which Sunday at the national convention of the society outpointed 11 other teams both in degree and floor work. This gives Moline two championship degree teams, the other being that of Swedish Olive lodge, I. O. O. F., which won first prize at the Minneapolis grand lodge. Both lodges are quartered in Swedish Olive hall and a number of members of the one belong also to the other.

It had been hoped that the Moline team would land first in the degree work, but less stress had been laid on preparation for the competition in floor work. However, under the careful leadership of Hans Norman, captain, and the coaching of C. W. Sandstrom, who is a member of the Swedish Olive team, the other teams were outdone on the floor also.

Celebrate the Victory.

Members of the Vikings assembled at the hall Sunday afternoon awaiting word from Chicago and there was great rejoicing when shortly after 6 o'clock a message was received stating that both prizes had been won. Most of the members of the team returned to the city today.

SCORPION STINGS.

They Kill Thousands of Persons Yearly in Mexico.

Four thousand persons are reported to die each year in Mexico from the stings of scorpions.

There are several varieties of scorpions in Mexico, some of them exceedingly venomous and others little feared. In the neighborhood of Tepic the virulent Centurus gracilis abounds, but it is little known about the more northern state of Sonora. It is one of the most venomous creatures in the world. In the small city of Durango scorpions are perhaps more plentiful and more dangerous than anywhere else in the republic. Here the climate is humid and torrid—it is in the "tierra caliente"—and it is estimated that more than 150,000 scorpions are killed each year, with no appreciable effect on their numbers.

A scorpion resembles a diminutive lobster. Some specimens are eight inches long, though the average length is from two to four inches. The claws closely resemble a lobster's; with them the scorpion crushes its prey after disabling it by means of a sting.

The body of a scorpion consists of several segmented joints, the last five or more narrowing down to form the tail, which curls up forward over the body and terminates in the sting. This businesslike appendage is a horny, sharp spine containing two little openings which connect with the venom gland within the shell of the last segment. In striking the scorpion gives the tail a rapid lashing motion forward in advance of the body and literally administers a hypodermic injection of poison, or rather several injections, for it usually stings repeatedly when it does strike.

In color scorpions vary according to environment. One ordinarily colorless or translucent will assume a brown or blackish shade in dark surroundings. Scorpions live in the cracks of the sun baked clay, under stones, in the chinks of the adobe huts and in the cracks in the plaster of old frame houses. They prey upon spiders and other night marauding insects. A spider stung by a scorpion may be observed undergoing convulsions before death just as animals or human beings do.

Unless sleeping cots are well screened and the supports immersed in cans of kerosene or carbolic acid—water evaporates too rapidly—the prowling scorpion may find its way beneath the bed covers and sting the restless child. By nature it is a nocturnal pest. In Mexico every one takes a peep in the toe of his shoe before dressing in the morning to assure himself that no undesirable citizen is hiding there.

Contrary to common belief scorpions never commit suicide by stinging themselves to death—at least not in Mexico. In fact, they seem immune to their own venom. Two well matched specimens will battle to death if confined in a jar, stinging each other repeatedly, yet the victor does not die. He tears his antagonist into small pieces with his claws and voraciously devours every trace of the vanquished foe. And the cannibal thrives on the diet.

Some scorpion bites cause little more than burning pain and numbness in the part affected for a few days. But the more poisonous varieties cause death, and that speedily, especially when they sting young children or debilitated old people. The lower classes of people suffer more than the well to do because of their custom of going about half naked most of the time.

In serious cases the local numbness and pain or burning extend over the body in a few hours. Then follows a feeling as of a ball in the throat, the victim clutching his throat as though choking on a foreign body. Prompt treatment at this stage will usually save life.

If not treated the mouth soon begins to froth and the eyes become reddened and hypersensitive to light. Within an hour or two the breathing grows shorter and more difficult, the body turns blue, the pulse fails and convulsions set in. The convulsions recur frequently during several hours, but complete relaxation usually ushers in the end.

Fortunately unconsciousness develops early, so that the victim does not suffer the tortures of one dying from lockjaw. The average time required for a scorpion sting to cause death is twelve or fourteen hours.

The treatment of scorpion sting consists of a free incision of the part to promote copious bleeding, then rigorous massage toward the bleeding center for half an hour or more. Stimulants—meaning drugs and not that pseudo stimulant, alcohol—are also necessary.

In villages where physicians are wanting the treatment is applied by "practitioners"—ignorant, self constituted healers, and many a poor creature suffers from the practitioner's crude surgery. Their reckless use of carbolic acid, iodine and similar poisons also accounts for many otherwise avoidable fatalities among victims of scorpion stings.—New York Times.

School Girl Had Serious Bronchial Cough—Cured It With Father John's Medicine.

"Last winter, when I had another attack as bad as last, I had recommended Father John's Medicine. I commenced taking it in a few weeks, and since then have never missed a day in school. I owe a great deal to it as the results were most favorable. My attack last winter was so bad I was propped up in bed every night for five weeks to get a little rest." Mothers should realize the value of Father John's Medicine as a family remedy for coughs, colds and as a body builder, because it is pure and whole some, free from alcohol and dangerous drugs, and is not a patent medicine but a doctor's prescription.—(Adv.)
